

Contents

Introduction	vii
The Heschel Dynasty	xi
The Friedman Dynasty	xii
The Perlow Dynasty	xiii
Part One • Warsaw: Childhood and Adolescence	1
1 Heschel's First Home (1907–1914)	4
2 Early Studies and Catastrophes (1914–1917)	21
3 “The Blessings of Humiliation” and Triumphal Adolescence (1917–1924)	37
4 Expanding the Self Through Literature (1924–1926)	56

Part Two • Vilna: The Jerusalem of Lithuania	73
5 A Rebbe Among Revolutionaries (1925–1927)	76
Part Three • Berlin: Europe in Crisis	97
6 A Student in Berlin (1927–1931)	100
7 A Jewish Philosophical Mentor (1928–1931)	121
8 Poetic Vision and Prophetic Sympathy (1928–1931)	140
9 Paradigm Shift (1929–1931)	153
10 God’s Active Presence (1931–1932)	162
11 A Year of Grief and Rage (1933)	172
12 A Poet’s Self-Portrait (Winter 1933–1934)	182
13 Spiritual and Intellectual Biographies: Koigen and Maimonides (1934–1935)	194
14 The German Jewish Renaissance (1934–1935)	208
15 Alliance with Martin Buber (June–December 1935)	218
16 Mission Defined (January–September 1936)	229
Part Four • Frankfurt, the War, and Exile	241
17 Teaching in Times of Crisis (September 1936– December 1937)	244
18 A Prophetic Witness (December 1937–March 1938)	256
19 “Out of the Depths” (March–October 1938)	265
20 Struggling to Escape (November 1938–July 1939)	276
21 Departure and Deliverance (1939–1940)	288
22 Epilogue	304
Notes	309
References	361
Permissions and Credits	385
Acknowledgments	387
Index	389