

Contents

Editorial Preface by Patricia Williams	vii
Introduction by Michael Tanner	xii
1 The Nature of Opera: Entry for The New Grove Dictionary of Opera	1
2 Mozart's Comedies and the Sense of an Ending	20
3 Mozart's Figaro : A Question of Class?	25
4 Don Giovanni as an Idea	31
5 Passion and Cynicism: Remarks on Così fan tutte	43
6 Rather Red than Black: Verdi, Don Carlos and the Passion for Freedom	49
7 Tristan and Time	57
8 The Elusiveness of Pessimism: Responding to the Ring	62
9 Wagner and the Transcendence of Politics	70
10 L'Envers des destinées: Remarks on Debussy's Pelléas et Mélisande	90
11 Manifest Artifice: The Ingenuity of Puccini	99
12 Comments on Opera and Ideas: From Mozart to Strauss by Paul Robinson	107
13 The Marriage and the Flute: Tippett and Mozart	113
14 Janáček's Modernism: Doing Less with More in Music and Philosophy	118

15 Authenticity and Re-creation: Musicology, Performance and Production	121
16 Naïve and Sentimental Opera Lovers	131
Acknowledgments	144
Index of Names and Works	146